

MARRENON

MAISON DE VIGNERONS
ENTRE MER & MONTAGNES

Capella, AOP Ventoux, Rouge AOC Ventoux, Vallée du Rhône, France

The richness of these vineyards gives this red wine a beautiful power with a great impression of smoothness.

PRESENTATION

Capella is the third brightest star in the celestial sphere of the northern hemisphere. This cuvée refers to our region, famous for its magnificent starry skies, but also to the winegrowers who, in recent years, have been able to light the way to these exceptional terroirs of the Ventoux.

TERROIR

The vineyard stretches along the southern slopes of the Ventoux appellation, on calcareous gravel and calcareous sandstone soils: these soils are quite deep, which gives them good resistance to drought.

The vineyards are part of the "Sélections Parcelles": many criteria are taken into consideration such as demanding trellising, low vigor, exposure of the grapes to the light, age of the vines.

IN THE VINEYARD

The harvest always takes place late in the season.

VINIFICATION

The skins of the berries are soft so that they can macerate for at least 3 weeks, giving the wine a certain power, but with a great impression of smoothness.

AGEING

10% are aged in barrels, before being reassembled with the other parts.

TASTING

On the nose, we perceive aromas of cherries, blackcurrant, spices, all enhanced by a beautiful expression of graphite. The mouth gives a sensation of fullness, carried by full but well integrated tannins.
