Burgundy, Chateau Lachassagne, Bourgogne, France, Blanc

Bourgogne, France

Château de Lachassagne used to belong to Montrachet Marquis de Laguiche who understood the quality of its terroir made of clay and Limestone from the Bajocian time. The Terroir is very similar to the terroir from Côte de Beaune.

The Château is a 26 hectares of vineyard, surrounding by walls, allowing him to use the name "Clos and Monopole". The vineyard has the best exposure possible, facing East and South East.

The vineyard of lachassagne has always been very well maintained and regularly replanted an
