IGT Vinum Caecebum , Red

IGT Vinum Caecebum,

Monti Cecubi Winery is located in Itri (Province of Latina, Latium), between woods and forests of cork, on the hills watching Sperlonga Sea.

This is the land of the old Vino Cecubo, the Ancient Roman wine. Produced in the area between the towns of Fondi, Itri and Sperlonga (known as "Ager Caecubum"), Cecubo was the most important wine in Ancient Roman times, both during the Republican era and in the Imperial age, and therefore eulogized by many classical poets, such as Horace, Pliny the Elder and Columella

THE STORY

This red wine represents the identity of our land : the "Ager Caecubum". Cecubo was considered as the best wine in the Ancient Rome, both during the Republican era and in the Imperial age.

TERROIR

Red clay, calcareous

VINIFICATION

Vinification takes place with cold pre-fermentation of the skins, followed by a temperature-controlled alcoholic fermentation in stainless steel tanks with several pressing. Malolactic fermentation is carried out in wood, then the wine completes its refining in tonneaux.

TASTING NOTES

Intense ruby color, cherries, plums with strong notes of spices and pepper. On the nose the bouquet is broad, with marked notes of spices, which blend with black cherry and plum. Taste : in the mouth emerge notes of alcohol-soaked morello cherry, with nuances of spices. Tannins very elegant and balanced.

FOOD AND WINE PAIRINGS

Goes perfectly with traditionally aged cheeses, and alongside red meats like duck.
